Make Music

Provide materials for your child to make simple musical instruments. For example, a drum can be made using an empty oatmeal carton or cardboard box. Your child can personalize the instrument by decorating the outside of the container with paper and coloring tools. Make a kazoo by attaching a small piece of wax paper to the end of a cardboard tube with a rubber band. Poke a small hole in the wax paper, and your child will be ready to toot away! Compare the sounds produced by the different instruments to develop auditory discrimination skills.

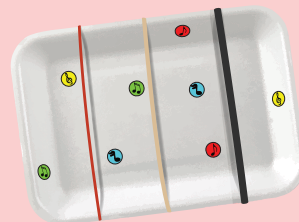

Farm to Table

Encourage your child to notice items around them that came from a farm. Talk about ingredients, fruits, and vegetables when shopping or cooking. How might the farmer have grown or produced the items?

My Project: Beginner's Banjo

When I bring this project home, we can:

- Pluck the rubber bands and notice each sound.
- Play music and pluck the banjo to the beat of the song.
- Wrap rubber bands around other household objects (e.g., cookie cutters, baking pans, empty shoe/tissue box) and notice the different sounds each makes.

My Project:

Old MacDonald's Farm

When I bring this project home, we can:

- Name and count the animals.
- Sing "Old MacDonald had a Farm" together.
- Practice making the animal sounds.
